

CARIBBEAN getaways

When the temperatures drop, the snow starts to fall and the crackling fire has lost its appeal, it's time to book a flight and get to a little bit of heaven. Sprinkled throughout the sparkling, warm waters of the Caribbean Sea are a host of islands with beautifully designed resorts, residences, and homesites that will take your breath away—the perfect antidote to winter's blues. New or perennial favorite, they offer a wide array of amenities and activities to seduce the senses. Whether you want to delve into one specific adventure such as discovering the nuances of the local cuisine; indulge in top-of-the-line spa treatments for body, mind and spirit; or simply loll on the beach during the day and dance the night away at an elegant club, it's here waiting for you.

Mystical peaks soaring 4,000 feet above turquoise seas evoke a South Pacific setting. Quiet beaches suggest a world secluded far from civilization. And at the heart of it all is the most ideal natural harbour in the Western hemisphere.

Christophe Harbour

St. Kitts

The unspoiled, island paradise of Christophe Harbour is emerging in the Caribbean Sea, scheduled to receive guests in 2011. Designed for gracious, carefree living, its 2,500 acres will encompass a mega-yacht harbour surrounded by a lively village, deluxe hotels, elegant residences, a Tom Fazio-designed golf course, and an exclusive private club.

Christophe Harbour is the collaboration of a world-renowned team that includes Kiawah Development Partners, known for its resort community of Kiawah Island, South Carolina, and Doonbeg Golf Club in Ireland. Together with Mandarin Oriental Hotel Group and Fazio Golf Course Designers, they are creating a new genre of destination getaways graced with exceptional services.

The harbour's marina will offer gentle prevailing winds, protective shelter and access to both the Atlantic Ocean and Caribbean Sea. Of the 300 slips planned, several will accommodate ships longer than 100 feet, which will put Christophe Harbour at the summit of international, sea-faring destinations.

Facing the gleaming yachts docked nearby, the village is planned to be a vibrant gathering place with chic waterside cafes, its stylish visitors taking in the sights and sounds as they stroll along the promenade. Fringing the harbour's edge will be a world of dining choices and boutiques. Caribbean rhythms will waft from lively nightspots, and the luxurious hotels will cater to a sophisticated clientele.

Tom Fazio's must-play course is currently taking shape on a rolling hillside. A masterpiece of harmonious transitions and elevation changes between holes—nearly each with a water view—it promises intriguing diversity and challenges at every round.

A limited number of homesites and residences are available in this idyllic island community. Incomparable in the Caribbean, its distinctive aesthetic and architecture are uniquely designed to enhance the setting with minimal impact on the environment. Christophe Harbour residents can look forward to easy, island living amidst dramatic beauty for generations to come.
